However, we all know that the ads of this app are ridiculous. I know it's a free app and everything, and I really like it and you don't mind a couple of ads, but there's just a problem for me. I was watching Mha, yes, my hero academia, and I had a problem. So technically what happened, I received an announcement, not bad? After the announcement, the anime would be loaded. I kept out of the app, and every time I returned to it I would give me another announcement and does not charge again. You are sorry, my Internet is not bad at all. You may also think, "probably is probably more than an ad, and the second is not just loading, so when you come back in loads." But no, I was doing this because I know more than 10 minutes. I got at least 10 Announcements and NGL, my night was in ruin because it continued to happen and I ended up giving up and go to bed. This may seem like a complaint, and the type is, but the morale of history is to solve your ads . 4 ads are not bad, and is understandable for a free app with a ton of souls and more, but I should not have 10 ads in a single advertising break. (And I probably had more if I had continued to move forward.) So however, a summarity, I like the app very altogether, but sometimes the ads come out of control and ruin only the anime experience for you. I have found this useful, XO in Taisho-was Japan, Tanjiro Kamado is a boy whose peaceful life comes Broken when he returns home to find his entire family demolished by a demon. The only survivor is Nezuko, the little sister who has been transformed into a demon.
